LATEST FROM EUROPE.

(VIA NEW-YORK.)

LOWER ELBE, Jan. 2.

The report of the French having sustained a severe defeat from the Russians, continues to maintain itself. The engagement took place between the Vistula and Bug, and the loss of the French is stated at near 30,000 men in killed and prisoners. However this may be, there can be no doubt that the affairs of the French in Poland are in a very bad way; nor is it supposed by any one they will be able to maintain their ground in that country, as the Russians, by official documents, have now the following force in the field: Troops of the line, three corps, consisting of 75 000 men each, 150,000 troops of reserve, also regulars; 100 000 Cossacks, Baskirs, Calmucks and Kiraise; 200,000, new levy, completed January 1, 1807; 400,000, a levy in a mass, on the frontiers, for the protection of the empire; constituting a total of 1,075,000. In addition to these, a new levy of recruits, which will be ready on the 1st of March, will produce 150,000 men. By the last accounts from Berlin, one third of the French army is dangerously ill. Murat is so bad that his recovery is despaired of; and Napoleon himself is said to be seriously indisposed.

Private letters from Koenigsberg of the 17th inst. state, that her Prussian majesty died of a nervous fever on the same day. The left wing of the French army, after taking Thorn, was marching against Koenigsberg. Most of the inhabitants had taken flight to Memel, where his Prussian majesty's effects had arrived. The French finding their rear so unsafe, now unite all their forces to conquer the kingdom of Prussia. The king, however, is at the head of 80 000 men, exclusive of the Russian auxiliaries under general Tolstoy.—Saxony and Prussia are on the eve of a famine.

The emperor Napoleon is said to have sold to the king of Holland the cities of Hamburgh, Lubeck and Bremen, on condition of his receiving a certain annual tribute.

By private letters from Bucharest, of the 17th ultimo, the Grand Seignior has consented to receive a Russian garrison at Constantinople.

Passwan Oglou is now a vassal of Russia, whose troops have occupied Widdin. Bender, Choczim and Jassay, have been voluntarily surrendered by the commandants of their respective garrisons; but Russia professes to respect the independence of the Porte, and to guarantee it, agreeable to treaty. The archduke Charles of Austria is about to set out for Gallicia to take upon him the command of a considerable army. The fortress of Stralsund is still unmolested, and Mortier, with the eighth corps of the French army, remains inactive.

ALTONA, Jan. 2.

The accounts which have reached us from the Turkish provinces in Europe, states that the Russians have not only occupied Choczim and Jassy, but also Bender, Bucharest and Widdin, and are approaching the frontiers of Dalmatia.

LONDON, Jan. 21.

The report of a battle between the Russians and French in Poland, which has terminated greatly in favor of the former, continue to prevail. Admiral Russell, it is now stated, had sent dispatches to the admiralty, that speak of his having received such intelligence from several neutral ships, which have passed him off the Texel. It is further reported, but we know not on what authority, that Austria has declared in favor of Russia.

Rumors from the French coast make mention of an action, but do not state what has been the result of it.

January 22.

We are happy to have it in our power to lay before our readers some most important and gratifying intelligence from the continent. A gentlemaa arrived this morning at the foreign office, from Poland; he has brought letters for lord Howick from Mr. Adair at Vienna, and was also able, from his own observation, to communicate very important information. The substance of the intelligence which he brings is that the French army is in a most deplorable condition; the number of men carried off by disease is estimated at not less than 40,000. It does not appear that any decisive battle has been fought, although there has been a great many skirmishes, which have terminated with various success; but generally in favor of the Russians.

The American plenipotentiaries to the British government received dispatches on Saturday last from the American minister, Mr. Armstrong, at Paris. They were brought to this country by an American gentleman, who quitted Paris on the 10th inst. Mr. Armstrong, it appears, had received official assurances from the French government that American vessels coming from America, or returning from England to the United States, will not be annoyed by French cruizers, and that orders to that effect had also been given to the privateers fitted out from St. Maloes, Cherbourgh, &c.

By a boat from Flushing, which sailed from thence last Monday, it is said, that accounts had arrived there, that daily engagements had taken place between the French and Russians for 12 successive days, up to the 2d of January, and the result was, that the French were ultimately defeated, with the loss of 50,000 men, killed, wounded and prisoners, and all their cannon. An embargo had been laid on all the smuggling vessels prior to last Monday, on which day 48 left that port, and the merchants were obliged to enter into bond of 1000l. sterling each, not to allow any papers to be taken on board, by which intelligence might be given. The old harbor at Flushing was clearing out to receive the ships built at Antwerp, for them to be equipped there.

A Mr. Hardacre has presented a plan to the lords commissioners of the admiralty, to prevent ships from foundering at sea, which is said to have met their lordships approbation.

January 19.

The following letter was late on Saturday afternoon sent by Mr. Grenville to the right honorable the Lord Mayor of London.

Admiralty Office, Jan. 17.

MY LORD,

I have the honor to inclose to your lordship, a message just arrived at the admiralty from Plymouth.

I have the honor to be, &c.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCH.

[COPY.]

Buenos Ayres taken, and the army prisoners—August the 12th.

WM. LEIGHTON, Mayor.

A second communication was made to the Lord Mayor yesterday afternoon, and was this morning made public—it is as follows.

Admiralty Office, Jan. 18.

MY LORD,

I have the honor to transmit to your lordship an extract of a letter received this morning from lord Collingwood—— and also an extract of a letter from captain Mudge, from Portsmouth, describing the information given to him by the master of the Spanish schooner El Cupido, captured by the Colpoys on the 27th ult.

T. GRENVILLE.

Extract of a letter from Lord Collingwood, dated ocean off Cadiz January 1, by the Princess Elizabeth, Malta packet.

"I beg you will be pleased to inform my lords commissioners of the admiralty, that the Beagle has just joined us with a Spanish schooner captured yesterday from Monte Video, which she left on the 17th Sept. and I am sorry to inform their lordships, she brings the account of Buenos Ayres having been recaptured on the 12th of August; and general Beresford and the whole troops, amounting to 1400 were made prisoners of war, and marched into the interior."

Warsaw, the French Head Quarters, is fifty German miles distant from Dantzic, forty-nine from Breslaw, forty one and an half from Posen, seventy two from Berlin and eighty from Vienna, and has neither ramparts, walls nor ditches, but is perfectly open. It is about one German (four and a half English) miles in length, about half as broad and three in circumference—The place is very irregularly built, palaces and wretched huts being intermingled.—Including the suburb of Prega, the city has two hundred and ninety nine streets. The amount of the number of houses is, three thousand six hundred and nineteen. The number of inhabitants is sixty three thousand three hundred and sixty nine, among which are 308 monastics and 3,427 Jews.

Dispatches are said to have reached the admiralty on Saturday night communicating the arrival of the Carrier cutter, from off the Texel, at Yermouth, on Friday last. She is said to have spoke a vessel on the 14th, from Amsterdam bound to Drontheim, and the master, a Dane, privately stated, that it was understood in Amsterdam, that the French had suffered considerable loss in a partial engagement near Warsaw, which is reported to amount to about fifteen thousand, and the combined armies about the same number. That a general engagement was it is said, shortly expected, as the Russians had been joined by the remaing Prussian forces, & were very numerous.

Rumors prevailed a few days since of a battle having been fought between the French and the Russians, in which the latter are said to have been defeated with very great loss. This report rested on the authority of a letter said to have been received by the Austrian ambassador in London, count Stahremberg; but reports now say, that even this letter is a fabrication; we must wait patiently a few days longer, as the next mails no doubt will bring us information on this subject.

Saturday three vessels, the Mercury, Aurora, and Dlayde, arrived in the Thames from the Baltic; they sailed we understand, from Elsineur with the fleet. Capt. White has brought Bamberg, Frankfort, and other German papers of a later date than those previously received. The Bamberg paper mentions the receipt of advices from Warsaw to the 26th of Dec. at which period two smart actions had been fought between the French and Russians, the first at Nawamaisto, in which about one hundred and twenty Cossacks were made prisoners; the other at Cichanoa, which appears to have been warmly contested, but in which the French are also stated to have prevailed.

The Bamberg Editor, on the authority of a letter from Augsburg, states Breslaw to have capitulated, but the date and particulars are not mentioned.

The passage of troops through Frankfort, to join the army in Poland was unremitting; and various articles of stores were forwarded from Mayence, &c. to the same dessination.

The Russian division under general Tolstoy which has joined the Prussians, is stated at 34,000 men only—The army, it appears, has advanced to the Omulet to sustain the corps of gen. Beningsen; and the Prussian column has taken a strong position considerably in advance, at Soldau, which they are fortifying.

One of the deputies sent from Hamburg to Bonaparte, and who, from particular intimacy with Talleyrand, had, it is supposed, an opportunity to ascertain with tolerable precision the condition of the French army in Poland, reports, that the French troops, who had, on the 23d Dec. crossed the Oder, amounted to 200,000 men; and that the sick in the hospitals at that date exceed 17,000; subsequent accounts represent the sick to have increased to nearly 30 000.

Notwithstanding the blockade of the British islands ordered by Bonaparte, 40 sail of British merchantmen, independent of running ships, have ventured to sea during the first fortnight of the present year, viz. Prince George 98 guns, from Portsmouth to the West Indies, with 200 sail; Rimilies 74 guns, from Cork for the West Indies with 120 sail; Blonde frigate from Falmouth for the West Indies with 20 sail; Gannet sloop from Portsmouth for Portugal, with 15 sail; and Meteor bomb, from Portsmouth for the Mediterranean, with 40 sail.

No intelligence has yet been received of the fate of the expedition fitted out against the Frenchmen who had landed and fortified themselves in the small Orkney island of Flotta. A letter from Thurso, dated the 3d inst. received in Edinburgh, states that the people there were beginning to be alarmed for the safety of the brave volunteers who sailed against the Frenchmen not having heard either of or from them since they sailed.

Her Prussian majesty, we fear, has fallen a victim to numerous calamities which have lately been accumulated upon her house. She was attacked by a nervous fever, the consequence of excessive anxiety and fatigue, against which, unfortunately, the delicate frame of that high-spirited woman was not proof.

House of Commons, Jan. 20.

Sir T. Turton observing a noble lord (Howick) in his place, wished to call his attention to a few questions upon certain points of material importance. He was not aware of any reserve on the part of ministers in regard to the treaty concluded with America, but if he understood the noble lords formal answer to a question put to him by the learned gentleman (Mr. Per-val upon that subject, the noble lord had seemed to say that the point in regard to the treatment of neutrals, was reserved by government. He wished to learn, however, whether it would be necessary to blockade the French islands and to intercept her trade between these settlements and their mother country. This information he conceived to be necessary, indeed it was rendered so by the motion of the learned gentleman, as he firmly believed the existence of an artful and insidious understanding on that point between France and America. The second question with which he had to trouble the noble lord, related to the export of specie which had taken place some days ago; and he wished to learn under what act or resolution of the House, such money had been voted? The last question he had to ask was, whether or not the noble lord was in possession of any information respecting Buenos Ayres, subsequent to that before the public.

Lord Howick replied in answer to the first question of the hon. baronet, that with respect to neutrals, the treaty between Great Britain and America would not prevent this country from distressing the commerce of the enemy carried on in neutral ships. He should, however, decline further explanation upon this subject at present, as he might be led into a premature discussion of the matters contained in a treaty which had not yet been ratified. With regard to the blockade of the French islands, the right of blockade naturally grew out of a state of war, and the enforcement of a blockade depended upon his majesty's directions. This was a matter of prerogative with which the house had no right to meddle, unless upon very strong grounds of misconduct on the part of the ministers. With regard to the export of specie, the fact was, that the money so sent was the balance of the sum voted to the emperor of Russia, on the first coalition between that monarch and Austria against France. On the subject of Buenos Ayres, he was not aware of any communication having reached government, which was not already before the public.

Sir T. Turton explained, and said, that the money just sent to Russia, had not received the sanction of a vote of the house.

Lord Howick explained, that the money now sent was merely the balance of a sum voted two years ago.

Sir T. Turton declared himself perfectly satisfied.

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.

A letter from St. Thomas under date of 5th February says, "The Tortola cruizers continue to blockade this port. The royal license for British vessels to trade to Hayti, arrived at Antigua a short time since, and there have arrived from windward five or six British vessels, all bound to Hayti, which have come here to procure German goods. A British armed ship also arrived here from Liverpool with a cargo of Dry Goods bound to Hayti. A captain D. who arrived here from Aux Cayes, informs, that their is every prospect of PETION becoming complete master of the whole island, as he has already actual possession of two thirds of the sea port towns. A Portuguese ship with a very valuable cargo of dry goods, quicksilver, &c. has been lately condemned at Tortola. She was bound from Cadiz to Vera Cruz, with a license from his Britannic majesty. She had been strictly examined by the blockading squadron off Cadiz, and also by several cruisers on her passage; but she could not pass thro' the ordeal of a Tortola court. She had on board some articles invoiced pruning hooks: Dougan had them discharged to examine them, and instead of following the christian maxim of beating swords into pruning hooks, he beat the pruning hooks into swords; and judge Robertson accordingly passed the sentence of confiscation of both vessel and cargo."

COMMUNICATION.

Quis desiderio sit pudor aut modus,
Tam cari capitis? HOR.

By the recent death of Colonel THOMAS L. LEE, of Loudoun, society has lost one of its brightest ornaments. Sensible as I am of my inability to do justice to merit so exalted as his, I cannot refrain from offering this small tribute of affection, to the memory of my departed friend. To those who have seen him in the midst of his amiable family, I shall not seem extravagant in declaring, that his conduct in domestic life surpassed all praise. In the warmth and steadiness of his friendship, I believe he was almost unequalled. So engaging were his manners, and so truly worthy was his character, that his acquaintances could no more avoid admiring, than his friends could refrain from loving him. Possessed of talents which would have done honor to any station, he preferred the enjoyment of domestic felicity, to the noise and bustle of public life. Yet no one could feel a more lively interest in the affairs of our country than himself, nor could a man be found who would more readily sacrifice his private, to the public good.—Whether we view him as a husband, as a father, as a friend or as a citizen, we shall find him in every character, equally deserving our admiration and esteem. His friends will long remember with regret, the many happy hours which they have passed in his company, and reflecting upon their mournful and premature separation from one whom they so much loved, will exclaim,

Multis ille bonis flebilis occidit,
Nulli flebilior quam mihi.

MR. SNOWDEN,

By giving the following Queries and Paradox, a place in your paper, you will oblige two of your female readers and puzzle all the rest.

Quere, by Miss M—A—C

About what time, before Christ, did DIDO, Queen of Carthage, and ÆNEAS the founder of the Latium empire live? And whether they were cotemporaries, according to the account given of them by Virgil, the famous Latin poet, or not?

Paradox by the same.

Three captains of ships discoursing of their ages, on the 14th instant A said he was 30 years old that day at noon; B said he was 30 to-morrow; and C said he was 42 the day after. They intend if living to keep their birthdays together, on the same day of the month, in the year 1808. Pray how can it be done?

Quere, by Miss I—C—N—

In what part of the world did PARIS land with HELEN, after stealing her from antient Greece? And when or whether he carried her to Troy?

CONGRESS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 18.

Debate on the resolution offered by Mr Broom to make further provision by law to secure the privilege of the writ of Habeus Corpus to persons in custody under or by colour of the authority of the U. States.

(Mr. Broom's Speech continued.)

The speaker was sorry to interrupt the gentleman from Delaware, but must observe, that it was not in order to debate the motion till the house should agree to consider it.

Mr. Smilie hoped the gentleman from Delaware would be permitted to proceed, as the subject was a very important one.

Mr. Broom then moved to consider the motion of reference, to which the house agreed, ayes 57.

Mr. Broom. I am sorry that I have trespassed upon the rules of the house—I assure the house it was not intentional, and beg leave to offer to the gentleman from Pennsylvania, (Mr. Smilie) my acknowledgment for his liberality. As the house has now agreed to consider the motion, I will proceed in suport of it. The stat. 31, chap. 2. was designed to remedy, and did effectually remedy the defects of the common law provision on this subject. By that statute several penalties were imposed on the judges refusing to grant the writs of Habeas Corpus and on all parties refusing to obey it. In most of the states laws have been made upon the principle of the statute of Charles, and so far as they extend are found to have the most beneficial effect in securing the privilege of the writ, but they do not extend to inflicting penalties on judges of the court or officers of the United States. If the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus be important & the law be defective, it is surely our duty to apply the remedy. Of its importance it is true we have but little experience in our own country. In England from whence we derive our knowledge of it, they have proved its value, they have tried it, and it has not been found wanting. In England this inestimable privilege has been for ages the proud theme of exultation; there they worshipped it as a talismanick wand which could unbar the gates of the strongest prison and dissolve in an instant the fetters of the captive. It was to Englishmen as a wall of fire by night shielding them from the arbitrary sway of tyrannic power. It is indeed the great palladium of that civil liberty which has exalted the English character. Of the power and influence of civil liberty upon the happiness of the people of England we need no stronger evidence than the situation of surrounding nations where it was unknown—Let us go back to less civilized times & we shall see in these nations men in the most abject state of society, suffering oppression in every possible shape; there every castle was a secret and inviolable prison; there the life and liberty of the most illustrious as well as the meanest subject were alike the sport of the caprice of a tyrant. Even the petty lordling held as it were the shears of fate and cut at pleasure the thread of life of his vassals; letter de cachet could confine the unhappy victim of power for life in the loathsome walls of a dungeon, and in spite of the ties of affection and blood, friends must forget each other or share a common fate; the savage tortures of the inquisition chilled the soul with horror, and the gloomy recess of the sanctuaries of religion too often bore witness to the diabolical temper of man, when inflamed by passion & unrestrained by wholesome laws. Such were the condition of other countries, while the people of England were reposing in security under the protection of their civil institutions—institutions which had received the sanction of ages and were garded by the religious veneration of the people. The right to personal liberty unless for the commission of an offence against law. The right to know the accusation against them, and the right to be tried by their peers were all recognized by their charters and which their monarchs had sworn inviolably to observe. These rights were not merely secured by parchment; they were incorporated with the habits, manners and customs of the people; they were handed down from father to son in trust for posterity, and guarded as a paternal inheritance which could never be diminished with honor. The people were early taught to know them and to consider it a sacred duty to draw their swords in defence of them. These fundamental rights of Englishmen have existed from their earliest ages; they were collected in a body by Edgar the Saxon; they were revised by Edward the confessor, and were ratified by William the conqueror; they were recognized by Magna Charta, and after the wars between Henry III. and his subjects, were confirmed by the statute of Malborough and never afterwards questioned. Rights thus maintained through all the convulsions of England; rights thus endeared to the nation and engraven on the hearts of the people, and which have walked hand and hand with them through the darkest periods of their history, require no other proofs of their importance.

Valuable Lands for Sale.

On the 23d day of April next, I will sell, at public sale, for ready money,

A valuable Tract of Land, now in the occupation of Dr. James H. Blake; situate in Fairfax county, in the commonwealth of Virginia, on the south side of Pohick creek, containing about 395 acres, be the same more or less. This land was sold and conveyed in the year 1795 by Col. William Fitzhugh to James H. Blake, Richard Parrott, and Anthony Banning, and in 1798 by them conveyed to me in trust to be sold upon the happening of certain events which have taken place. Col. William Fitzhugh held this land under his ancestors, who together with himself had possessed it without any interfering adverse claim from any quarter very many years previous to the year 1795; so that it is believed there can be no possible doubt in the title: but selling as I do as a trustee, I will not give any warrantee except against myself and those claiming under me. A further description is conceived unnecessary, as the sale will be made on the land on the day above mentioned, and commence at the hour of 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

The whole arranged in a catechetical form compiled from the best American, English, and French authors. By D. L. C. teacher of geography.

In this compilation will be found several interesting and new particulars concerning the latest transactions in Europe, Asia and Africa; with a long and accurate description of the United States and Spanish America. Also a description of the most famous of the ancient nations, as Palestine or Judea, Greece, Italy, Gaul, &c. &c.

This work is printed on a handsome type, on elegant paper, neatly bound and lettered; in two vols. 12 mo. Price $2 50 cents.

This book has obtained, been approved and subscribed to by the President of the United States, by the Secretary of State, by the Directors of Colleges of Union at Schenectady, in the state of New-York, of George-Town, and of St. Mary, in Baltimore; in which last institution, as likewise the ladies seminary of Mrs. La Combe, and of Mr. Bacanois, in Baltimore; of Mrs. Rivardi, and Mrs. Grelan, in Philadelphia; and of Miss De St. Memin, in Burlington, New-Jersey, it has been adopted, to the exclusion of all other treatises of geography. It has also obtained the subscription of the most respectable part of the citizens of Philadelphia, New-York, Baltimore, and of the state of New-Jersey. This makes the author entertain the flattering prospects of seeing his labor rewarded by the suffrage of a liberal and enlightened public, who doubtless will encourage a work which has been sanctioned by so many able citizens in the Union, and for which no trouble has been spared to render it at the same time instructive and agreeable.
